Army Special Agents Seek Information on Homicide of Young, Pregnant Soldier in Hanau, Germany

QUANTICO, VA, Jan. 3, 2017 – Special Agents from the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Command, commonly known as CID, are seeking information regarding the 2001 death of U.S. Army Soldier Pfc. Amanda Gonzales in Hanau, Germany.

Gonzales, 19, was four months pregnant at the time of her death. Her body was found November 5, 2001 in her third-floor barracks room on Fliegerhorst Kasern near Hanau, Germany after she did not report for work.

Gonzales, on her first assignment in the Army, was assigned to Headquarters Supply Company of the 127th Aviation Support Battalion as a cook at the time of her death. She had been in Germany only eight months.

The death was ruled a homicide by asphyxiation.

“We are confident that someone out there knows something about the untimely death of this Soldier and her unborn child, and we are not giving up,” said CID spokesman Chris Grey. “We strongly encourage anyone with information to contact us immediately.”
