Wanted CID Actively Targeting Special Agent Candidates

FORT BELVOIR, VA., May 26, 2010 – The Department of Defense’s premier law enforcement agency, the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Command, commonly known as Army CID, is actively recruiting qualified Soldiers who are interested in careers as highly-trained federal law enforcement officers.

Special Agents with CID are responsible for investigating felony-level crime where there is an Army nexus, conducting protective-service operations, conducting counter-narcotic operations, developing criminal intelligence, and working with other Federal, state and local law enforcement agencies worldwide to solve serious crime.

Agents receive training at the U.S. Army Military Police School and advanced training in specialized investigative disciplines. They are some of the most highly-trained and experienced detectives in the law enforcement arena. Selected agents receive advanced training at the FBI National Academy, Metropolitan Police Academy at Scotland Yard, the Defense Academy of Credibility Assessment, formerly known as the DoD Polygraph Institute, and the Canadian Police College. Agents also have the opportunity to pursue a master’s degree in Forensic Science from George Washington University and enlisted agents have tremendous opportunities to become warrant officers.

To qualify, applicants must be a U.S. citizen, at least 21-years-old, be an E-4 or E-5 (non-promotable), with at least two years - but not more than 10 years time in service, have an ST score of 107 or higher, have at least 60 college credit hours (waiver of up to half of this prerequisite may be considered), have a physical profile 222221 or higher, with normal color vision and no record of mental or emotional disorders, a minimum of one year of military police experience or two years of civilian police experience (a waiver of this prerequisite may be considered).

Applicants must be able to speak and write clearly, have suitable character established by a Single Scope Background Investigation leading to a Top Secret clearance, no record of unsatisfactory credit and no civil court or court-martial convictions, and lastly, be able to complete 36 months of service obligation upon completion of the Apprentice Special Agent Course.

“The unique opportunities in CID are second to none and our agents are some of the most sought after professionals in law enforcement today because of the caliber of training they receive and their experience in solving crime,” said Chris Grey, chief of Public Affairs for CID. “We are always looking for qualified Soldiers to join our elite team of investigators.”

According to Grey, CID Special Agents are first responders and the Army’s detectives for murders, sexual assaults, contracting fraud, robbery, computer crimes and any other felony criminal acts against the Army community. Agents from CID work daily with the FBI, ATF, DEA, and numerous other law enforcement agencies and have one of the highest solve rates for serious crime within Federal law enforcement.
